Yujhe (Ugly Miracle) Yujhe (Hangul: 醜角, Hanja: 醜角) is a South Korean reality-competition show produced by JTBC. The show first aired on April 9, 2016, with the winner receiving 100 million won as prize money. There are four stages of the show. The first is survival, where each member has to eat their own filler of raw meat without being cut by the meat from others and without falling into the water. The second stage is health. In this stage, members must survive a night on a bench swing and a fall of 48 floors from a building. In the third stage, elimination, the highest-ranking member in the previous stage is given a quiz in which he or she must answer questions regarding the most meaningful subjects for South Koreans. There are 10 questions in the quiz, the correct answers to which determine whether a member is eliminated or retains a spot in the competition. After the quiz, each participant has a chance to hug, embrace, and kiss the person he or she most respects. The fourth and final stage is the final competition, where the remaining contestants race each other to the finish line using wheelchairs. Voting system Each audience member is given the title of juror. Jurors vote for whether they believe the member should be eliminated, so only 3 members can be eliminated at once. The votes are weighted, as each member receives 2 votes if they are in the top three, and 1 vote if they are in the bottom three.
