This means that when I save a file in Excel, I have got alerts in my Windows desktop. The windows appear in a particular order every time I save a file. Since there is no batch processing involved, everything goes real time. No delays even when hundreds of spreadsheets are processed and alerts are enabled. The next thing I like is that it is very easy to use. No need for any code, programming knowledge or anything. All I need to do is enable alerts on my spreadsheet. Once the document is saved, it becomes available to Bidoma Alert XL instantly and I can start receiving alerts. Since all alerts are generated automatically, I never need to configure anything. If I want to add a new alert in my document, it will be added instantly. I like the fact that alerts on my spreadsheet are delivered to my desktop. That is very convenient. I can manage alerts just like any other application and I can close alerts at any time. I can also enable or disable alerts from anywhere in the system – even in other spreadsheets. Bidoma Alert XL allows me to receive updates instantly, which is extremely convenient. The updates are real time and updated as soon as the data changes. I like the fact that I can add rules to my alerts. The rules make my alerts more accurate and can help me in my daily work. The rules include filtering conditions (such as greater than or less than) and other criteria. Data security is integrated with Bidoma Alert XL to make the data transmitted secure. I like the fact that I can access the document where the alerts are generated and it is visible. This means that I can see alerts for a particular spreadsheet at a glance. What's New In?

If you are a small or medium business and want to boost the security of your financial data than Bidoma Alert XL may be the answer to your concerns. Bidoma Alert XL allows you to monitor cell values in your spreadsheets for changes. You can easily determine if values in your cells have changed, you can easily display them on the Windows Desktop and you can receive an e-mail notification if values have changed. User friendly! This is the first tool that I ever saw that has users reporting to the administrator what or who is accessing the application. They also report which cell the request came from. Very useful. Auto Run would be nice. When Excel releases a new version it seems to silently update these settings and almost anything changes. Been using this for a while now and it never seems to complain when the settings change. Yes it would be nice to have a zoom in/out button when you view the cell in the edit mode. Also it's nice to have an option to increase the font size or look like the cell is in a text document. It's my first time to download and use a product like this. Generally I always don't like evaluating any product (except for brand's freeware) for a long time. However, for me this is really an excel-pleaser. It performs really really good on any excel-based file I tested on. I even like the way it can read a formatted file back with the same format. Having said that, there are still some things missing that I can think of. 1. It supports standard excel file only (not xlsx or csv). If there is any macro in the file, it will not be supported. It is a pity. 2. There are some things which need some improvement. For example, the lack of any reports on who access the file, or who changed the file. It is quite important for us to know these, especially in case of some sensitive data. Still, for the price of this software it is still a great product, and I am sure people have thought about the features missing and will try to fulfill them. I agree with user3012641 that the program is not able to handle large files. I was able to open a file with only 5 sheets (that should be relatively easy), so I did not try harder. In case this is not an option, I recommend to either use a spreadsheet program like MS Excel
