have a text field called "description" that contains the full text description of what the user is looking for. How can I add a hyperlink to the description string so that when the user clicks the hyperlink, they are taken to a new page? A: I assume you're using mysql_* functions, or some variant of it. Just add a hyperlink into your description field: Click here for test If the users already have javascript disabled, you can change it with a javascript function like so: function link_to_page() { var link = ""; window.location.href = link; } Click here for test You can find more information on the
