On the employment front, we have one of the best educated, most skilled, and most productive workforces in the world. The problem is our current tax system. We have to do a better job of taxing our employer's contribution to Social Security, Medicare, and Unemployment Insurance. If you work you should not pay into a system that provides benefits to those who don't work. It's simple, it's fair, and it will work. We have tried the Republican approach to taxation—cutting taxes, and relying on growth to pay the bills. I'll let the senator in New Jersey describe it better than I can. The problem is that it doesn't work. In fact, the opposite happens. Simply put, if you don't grow your economy you can't tax it, and you don't get more tax revenue. It's that simple. The amount of money that we are spending now in Vietnam, Korea, and Japan is approximately $1.5 trillion. Compare that to the $300 billion we have in Iraq and Afghanistan, and of course the $1.2 trillion that is being spent now in the Middle East, and all in one year. Again, that's our Republican approach to taxing, and the problem is it's not working. What we have learned from Europe is that if you tax something, a lot of what you have taxed goes away. It's no wonder that they are having great difficulty getting out of recession in Europe. In fact, you have to ask yourself how they ever got into a depression in the first place. The economist Paul Krugman said it best when
