Elden Ring Features Key:

Players and Game World: 19 in number (21 if we count the blacksmith, master weaponsmith, and some servants)
Rise of the Elden Lords: An 18 episode story. If you clear every quest from Lv.100 to LV.30 before Lv.100, you can get the final ability for your character: Elden Armor. Furthermore, new character unlock items and some items you can purchase with gold
A vast world with rich and diverse contents. In addition to open battlefields, players can explore myriad dungeons, or defy yourself while traveling between open battlefields and dungeons.

- Four game modes. All of them will not be open to everyone
- Open PvP mode - You can participate in battles with other players in a standalone environment to earn higher ranking
- Free Mode - Since it is free, it has one level restriction. To enter higher level dungeons, complete leveling up yourself.

Playable on Android 2.3/2.2/2.1/2.0 and higher devices
In-game event calendar: Check the list of each day's in-game events
Playable on a keyboard, mouse, or game controller
Multiplayer support. You can move together with others around you via asynchronous online. In addition to regular multiplayer, party system, and leaderboard, you can leave feedback for the other players. You can set online restriction mode per region
Character leveling - You can improve your physical strength, intelligence, and magic skills through experience points, that is, battle points. You can open treasure chests to get additional points
A variety of NPC characters (3 male and 3 female) to talk to. You can request for information and join in on a quest. You can talk with them and buy various items

An unrivaled fantasy RPG in the world. We hope you will step in and live a life you never imagined before on the lands between. CLOVER and EVERSPACE are registered trademarks or trademarks of Konami Digital Entertainment.

Hey there! My name is Davey D. and I am a full time indie developer. I have been working in the games industry for 10 years now. I've dabbled with Unity and other game engines, I've made a number of small game prototypes and I'm finally returning to my older favourites: RPG Maker and the classic 3D/pixel action adventure games of yesteryear. I'm very much an indie developer at heart, so I'd like to thank you for reading! Here is the first trailer for Stonebrood. Staring my main character, Ranger, and one of my former team mates, the Ethel - a very useful ranged combat specialist. Here's a little blurb to get you up to speed! Our faithful companion has been lost. Lament this lost and despair. But don't lose hope, there is a way to find him. The old way is no longer. The mysterious forest of Ironwood now lies before you. You are no longer alone. The Ethel is now your companion. Adrenaline filled action RPG where you fight off, befriend, and defeat enemies. You can take part in epic dungeons and fair combat-style encounters in the more open areas of the game. Early Access info: V0.0

What's new:

100-Day Trial period is over.

Please rest assured regarding the stability of the game content.

We are considering whether we will add individual downloadable content when we fix the bug being taken into consideration, but please rest assured that the price of the game, the expected length of the game, and updates to the game content will not change.

Like many of you, we too became excited to start the game and are struggling with the situation.

In the coming period, we are working on resolving the issues that prevent others from downloading the game. In addition, we have decided to temporarily limit access to certain services, such as game registration and the amount of storage available for character creation.

On August 31, we will wipe out the accounts being taken into consideration from the game and terminate all the items or consumables being taken into consideration. We ask for your understanding and apologize for all the trouble we are causing.

We look forward to being able to play together with you again to the next game.

Thank you for your continued patience.

We finally fixed the issue where some players were unable to download the game. Please try restarting your PC. If it still does not work, please use this region conversion tool (>

The following titles will available for sale starting from August 13, 2020. Keep in mind that the prices may change depending on what time you purchase. In any case, the sales will conclude on September 7th, 2020. Sales are open for Japan only.

1. DRAGON QUEST X

The "Power Level 10" update for DRAGON QUEST X will be out this week.

We hope you all enjoy this update. See you in the game!

Enjoy!Q: Using IN operator to split a comma-separated string to use in an INSERT statement I am using SQL Server 2008 R2 and am trying to use a comma separated list of values in an insert statement. I am trying to use a string variable that has been assigned to a comma-separated list of values. If I have a string variable called "itemList" which contains the values "Up, Down, Left, Right" I am trying to accomplish the following: INSERT INTO Table1 (Col1, Col2, Col3) VALUES (@Param1, @Param2, @Param3) As the values in 'itemList' may be dynamically modified by the application, it is difficult for me to use hardcoded values. I can get an ORM to insert a query like the following: INSERT INTO Table1 (Col1, Col2, Col3) VALUES (@Param1, @Param2, @Param3) I would like to do the following: INSERT INTO Table1 (Col1, Col2, Col3) VALUES (@Param1, @Param2, itemList) But it does not like the syntax with the IN operator and I get the following error: Msg 156, Level 15, State 1, Line 7 Incorrect syntax near the keyword

Originally published on Feb. 1, 2018 The federal government has announced the launch of its public inquiry into missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls. Former attorney general Jody Wilson-Raybould, the current minister of Indigenous services, will head the inquiry, which is expected to be fairly robust but not as broad as the previous inquiry into residential schools. She says she hopes it will shine a light on the conditions facing Indigenous women and girls, both in Canada and in the countries they often travel to. The decision to launch the inquiry followed the release of a February report from the Aboriginal Healing Foundation, which stated that 1,181 Indigenous women were missing in Canada between 1980 and 2017 — a third of whom are considered vulnerable. The report also found that 20 per cent of the 1,181 missing women have not been found. Wilson-Raybould said Prime Minister Justin Trudeau has asked her to lead the inquiry to help shed light on the conditions that contribute to the "scourge of violence." "It's a new day, it's a new decade, and I want to make sure that we do indeed shine light on the causes and conditions of violence against Indigenous women and girls," she said Friday. The public inquiry will have a budget of $74 million. Wilson-Raybould did not provide an estimate for the cost of the inquiry. However, she hinted Thursday it would be on the same level as the completion of the
