Lima eSports is pretty much a joke but I dont think they'll show much quality this month. I guess there is a picture of a shotgun on the tee box that I cant make out. Cool. I have to log out and back in again after that? What if I have the game for free but I haven't yet downloaded the expansion? If I can't log in and buy, do I have to first download the expansion? You can't buy it through steam, that's for sure. However, if you still have the game after the expansion is released, you can simply download the expansion. There should be a download option in the menu under Extras. The automatic update will make sure you get it too. I bought the game on sale for 30 dollars. The expansion will be added in that. I wish I could set up the game like I played it before the promotion. The default starting resources are way too low, so I decided to start my last campaign with a lot more. Otherwise, it's cool. The only downside is I had no idea that they had introduced guilds until I started playing the game. It's a downside, but not that much of a downside. Now it's the 12

Changes to your account: - Removed ads on the game - Modified the mane marker (NPCs) - Changed the style of the menu - Created a hover for the particle in the wall - Fixed a bug that allowed you to change regions at any time, not just during a bank transaction Version 1.35 includes a few changes to your account, such as the removal of ads on the game, the
