ib Throughout this tutorial, we will be building a simple network; an autoantibody network. We will be using a modified version of the Stanford CIFAR-10 Network which is available on our Github page. The CIFAR-10 Network consists of a data loader, image generator, and one fully connected convolutional layer for 10 classes. The network does not include a pre-trained classifier, because classifiers are only a small part of a deep learning workflow. As an extra, the CIFAR-10 network does not contain dropout as it needs a lot of testing to work well. For those of you who are interested in something a little more complex, you can download the Stanford CIFAR-100 Network from the GitHub project page. The network will classify images in the 100 classes CIFAR-10. In this example, we will be using the standard CIFAR-10 network.
